VICTIM OF RUNAWAY UNCONSCIOUS

On Thursday afternoon, while Claus, and Mrs. Thomas and child were driving into town, and when near the railroad crossing, the neck yoke broke frightening the horses and causing them to run away. The occupants were thrown from the rig, Mr. Thomas and child escaping unhurt. Mrs. Thomas was not so fortunate and at the present writing is lying in a precarious condition at the home of her parents, Newt, and Mrs. Stevenson, Lamerton. Dr. Shore has been in attendance since the accident. The victim of the runaway is still unconscious, concussion of the brain being the trouble. It is to be hoped that Mrs. Thomas will soon be restored to health.

BOARD OF TRADE

A meeting of the Mirror Board of Trade was held on Tuesday evening, Dec. 17. A fairly good number of members were in attendance.

Calvert-Robinson—That the president call a special meeting of the Board of Trade on Thursday, Dec. 20, 1912, to wind up the business for the year, and that the Secretary-Treasurer present a detailed statement and hand same in at that meeting.—Carried.

Robinson-Calvert—That W. G. McCormick audit the Board of Trade books.—Carried.

After a short discussion on matters relative to the publicity of the town, the meeting adjourned.

EVENTS AROUND TOWN AND DISTRICT

Turkey Shoot

A big turkey shoot is billed for Lamerton on Monday morning, Dec. 23rd.

Special Meeting Board of Trade

All members of the Mirror Board of Trade should attend a meeting on Thursday evening, Dec. 20th. Special business.

New Residents To Mirror

D. and Mrs. Hutchinson and family, have taken up their residence in the house formerly occupied by N. H. G. and Mrs. Ruthven.

No Parliament

On account of the extra Christmas rush of business a good many were unable to attend the Mock Parliament last Wednesday evening. The meeting was adjourned until Jan. 8, 1913.

Recovering From Sickness

Word has been received from Ross Steele stating that he has just left the hospital in Edmonton after severe siege of congestion of the lungs. He lost over thirty-five pounds since he was laid up and now weighs sixty-five pounds.

Xmas Tree And Entertainment

A Christmas Tree and Entertainment will be held in Cook's hall, Mirror, on Tuesday evening Dec. 24th at 8 o'clock. The entertainment is under the auspices of St. Monica's church. The committee in charge ask all parties wishing to place presents on the tree to bring them to the hall between two and five in the afternoon. An admission will be charged adults.

Personal Paragraphs

G. A. Calvert was a business visitor in Edmonton on Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Master Owen Robinson, son of Geo. and Mrs. Robinson has returned from attending school at Broadview and will make his home at Mirror in future.

N. H. G. and Mrs. Ruthven were in Edmonton on Monday and Tuesday of this week.

J. Parker, hotel license inspector, was in town on Tuesday day.

R. Upex and J. L. Brannan, visitors from Broadview, Sask., were visitors in Mirror for a couple of days this week. M. Upex is a brother of Mrs. Geo. Robinson's.

the judging of Oxford and Shropshire sheep and possibly Berkshire hogs, and in the poultry classes.

There will be practical work and lectures in grain judging, lectures on dairying and the marketing of butter, while the domestic science course will include cookery and the care of home. The school will remain one week at each of the points visited during the itinerary.

ROBBERY AT PRIVATE HOUSE

The same night as the robbery at the Mirror hotel, Tuesday, Dec. 10, a packing case on the veranda of Ruthven's new house was broken open and several of the best pictures stolen. The pictures were fairly small and could be easily carried away.

While there is nothing to give one the impression that the robberies were committed by the same party or parties, it is rather a strange coincidence that the thefts should occur on the same night.

On Thursday morning the 19th, a pad-lock on a shed at the rear of Mr. Ruthven's house was torn off, but apparently the robbers decamped without taking anything.

The case will be placed in the hands of Corp. Atkins, of the R. N. W. M. P.

CLOSE SEASON FOR BEAVER

Many persons throughout the Province of Alberta are under the impression that the close season for beaver which has existed for some time past will open on the 31st day of the present month. As this is incorrect we take this opportunity of advising our readers of the fact. By referring to sec. 18 of chapter 13 of the Provincial Statutes of 1910, it will be found that the close season for beaver was extended from the 31st day of December, 1912, until the 31st day of December, 1915. Consequently there will be no open season for beaver before the 31st day of December 1915.

Miss Brooke, he said it best don't think me now, but you a very strange question; and he took up the morocco covered book, opening it at the right page. "I have written his address. Was this really written by your sister?"

Violet looked at him, startled at the seriousness of his tone, but quite at a loss what to say.

"Yes, certainly," she replied. "I was with her when she wrote it."

But it was really her own handwriting, Easton pursued. "Her usual hand?"

Violet looked over his shoulder for a moment, then closed her eyes wide open.

"Yes," she said. "One could hardly mistake it. It's a very good specimen of cursive handwriting, poor darling, with all those flourishes."

The Major shook his head, remaining silent. Violet suddenly abrapted.

"But Major Easton," she cried, "you said there were no letters found in it. It is an attempt to imitate her handwriting. It was meant to be like mine. Who did he write it in, what, oh God, what does it mean?"

Violet's face turned down at the page before her. "It was mine." The dead girl's handwriting was striking; and to her, it seemed that he had been truthful.

"Violet looked at him for a moment with a fixed, intense gaze.

"Major Easton," she cried again, "I told him so."

"He looked at her, at last, his hands pale, his clear eyes troubled. Miss Brooke, he said slowly, I must tell you what I have learned from my confession. And I fear that perhaps you may never forgive me. My only son was a very old weak one, I did it for the best."

Violet Brooke stared at him, her face white, her hands wide open. "What do you mean?"

The Major drew out his pocket book and took off his spectacles slowly. "Forgive me, I said, I am going to worry you, to frighten you, but I must tell you. You have something rather startling. Can you hear a shock? Are you strong enough to stand the truth?"

Violet looked at him in her confusion, with a sudden shudder. "With your poor sister's death?"

"Violet, white as a sheet, stood looking at him, her hands clasped behind her in every limb. Then she sank down upon the couch near her.

"You're right, Major Easton. Tell me everything. I— I always thought I always learned that there was something Easton's eyes fell. "There was, he said. "And I can't help you understand why I did so. Oh, I hope you will understand. I am sorry. I am sorry. I am holding out to her, with a shaking hand, the scrap of paper. When I found this by her side. When you rushed past me to the bed, I was shocked. I thought that it was written by her. That she would have tried to kill herself or any one. She was dead and—oh, make you unhappy."

With wide-open eyes, Violet took the note from him, her hands trembling. She looked at him, her face pale and stern.

"To me! you thought she wrote that? To me! she asked.

"Easton bowed his head. Yes, he said by her. How could I think otherwise?"

Violet looked at him still, her face softening a little as she noticed his distress. "Easton," she said, "you did not know my sister—or me. You are right, Major Easton. Still, you know you would have known that your poor darling, would have died before me. And that I would have died before I would have given her cause to suspect me."

"I do understand, cried Easton, overwhelmed. I know you loved her. I saw that while you played. I did feel that the suggestion in that note was crazy, unnatural. I have kept it until now. What is that I have kept it until now.

Credit! Unfeudated! cried Violet. "Oh, it is worse than that. Oh, who could have been so wicked as to suggest such a vile lie, to think of such a thing?"

The Major shook his head, remaining silent. Violet suddenly abrapted.

Chapped Hands AND Cold-Sores

Are your hands chapped, cracked or sore? Have you "cold cracks" which open and bleed when the skin dries out? Are your hands cold and seem frost bite, chilblains or a "frozen" piece, at which times it is agony for you to go about your household duties? If so, Zam-Buk will give you relief from all these woes. It is a rich healing salve which sinks into the wounds, and the smarting and with heat quickly.

Mr. Valley of Portland says, "I have been so pleased with what Zam-Buk has done for my hands that I would like to say that it was a good to put them near water, and then rub them well until smooth and soft as if I had soaked them in warm water."

It is the big era of hand care, and Zam-Buk's rich healing essences will sink into the wounds, and the smarting and with heat quickly.

Today the Canadian Northern is introducing a new service which will reduce extension rates to the West, tickets to be on sale from Dec. 1 to Jan. 1, 1912, for the next six months. Extension privileges will be allowed at the end of this period for those who have not yet been permitted at most points on route.

Beside the offering of extended extension rates, the Canadian Northern is able to add another inducement to the intending traveller in the West. The rates for passengers are as follows:

Through Winnipeg—Through Paul and Chicago. To the old seasoned traveller probably the best value for money is the Canadian Northern, which appears the most fascinating. To those intending to go this way, it may be well to note that the Canadian Northern is to be expected with the United States Customs, as baggage is sent through without examination.

The Canadian Northern is also of service to the tourist in the U.S.A., O.K. Country, and Europe, which will show a great difference between that and the Canadian Northern, which is good for five months' limit and will be on sale from Nov. 10.

The Canadian Northern also aims at the business man, who can expect its dining car, working on the plan of pay only for what one ordered, and the first class dining car of the new diners of the latest pattern.

The Canadian Northern also aims at the tourist, who can expect the best for the month of December to the Central States, and the West, and the Pacific States, Chicago, Sioux City, Des Moines, and Omaha, so that many lonely, non-residential, beds will be available.

It is the Canadian Northern's opportunity of spending Christmas and three months at home.

Send all your savings, rates, winter clothing, and other necessities, and books, etc., etc., to "Zam-Buk," 253 Sherbrooke Street, Suite 100, Toronto. Price a dime.

A Revelation to the Unanswering
The hero of this story is a famous dramatic author. The play he has written has electrified thousands of men and women, and has caused many of making men and women laugh or cry at his own sweet will. He found him at his desk working on a new drama. So here are writing a new play? asked the friend.

In reply the author confessed his sin.

No, he said, I am just remembering something I have seen produced.

It's easier.

Hoister! (to one of the small guests) —Now, dear, will you have some bread and butter to finish up with?

—Well, I'll have some cake to go with on going.

Excursions to Eastern Canada via Canadian Northern Railway

Christmas fast approaches, bringing with it the thought of the folks back home at the holidays. And again, once again, to share in their Yuletide feast, we may have been only last year since our relatives came to the magnetic influence of the old family home. And this time, it will fall in a way that will not be overlooked.

Every Opportunity

Whether it be a trip to the East, South, or West, or to some part of the globe, every opportunity is at hand and open to all. As the weeks roll by, more and more people are traveling through the West. Settlers living in new towns, situated in outlying districts, are finding opportunities for railroad development, suddenly awake and within their grasp the train of opportunities. In many instances, they have been awaiting for years. The golden opportunity awaits.

Today the Canadian Northern is introducing a new service which will reduce extension rates to the West, tickets to be on sale from Dec. 1 to Jan. 1, 1912, for the next six months. After Twenty Years of Pill Torture
Relief and Cure Came With

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT

Take no risk and you make no experiment when you use Dr. Chase's Ointment for piles. Many doctors still believe in the use of pills, but an operation will effect a cure.

But operations are expensive and dangerous, and the results are not always good. Some have been cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment after operations had failed.

Dr. Chase's Ointment has a wonderful record as a cure for piles and all itching skin diseases. A piles specialist in New York says:

"We are anxious to supply the name of this well-known lady. We have had many calls from men and women in Canada and the U.S.A. asking for Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Dr. Chase's Ointment is the best.

STRIKE ON G. T. P. SETTLED

Montreal, Dec. 14.—The G.T.P. strike of machinists and boiler makers has been settled satisfactorily to all concerned as follows:—

All strikers will be taken back within 30 days.

In the event of employees having any grievance they will in the usual way present their case to the foreman, but should agreement not be reached the aggrieved party or committee of employees representing him may present the case to higher officials.

Wages for machinists and boiler makers will be 45 and 47 cents per hour and the company also agrees that next spring, if the majority of men of the craft affected by this dispute are not satisfied with their conditions of employment they will meet the committee for the purpose of arranging terms of agreement. Failing to arrive at any agreement the question at issue will be referred to a board of conciliation, appointed under the industrial disputes act and the company will agree to accept the decision of the board, provided men also agree to accept said decision.

Negotiations were carried on in the most friendly spirit and although the strikers have not secured all their demands the settlement, as outlined above is fairly satisfactory as it gives the strikers practically the same wages as prevail on other road and allows them committee representation in dealing with any grievance of any employee and providing for taking up the discussion of terms of the agreement at a stated time in the future when everything will be back to normal. In negotiations strikers were represented by Chas. E. Shane, of Graham; Wm. Renton, of Rivers; J. A. Moran, Edmonton, assisted by J. E. Merrigan, international vice-president of the Boilermakers' union, and R. S. Ward, of Winnipeg, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian District of Machinists. The company was represented by E. J. Chamberlin, president; W. Wainwright, first vice-president. Negotiations with the company officials took place after a series of conferences with the minister of labor.

for slaughter, 'neath his load his shoulders bend, and we sadly watch him totter to his destined end. Soon, ah soon he will be skiting where Time's sextons dig and delve; he is near there at this writing—poor old weary Nineteen Twelve! Recently so strong and burly, now we see him weak, decayed, while we do our shopping early in the busy haunts of trade. Soon Time's funeral director the old hoary year will shivel, and he'll be as dead as Hector—poor old crippled Nineteen Twelve!

And it brings us somewhat near, to our appointed end; and we see now, somewhat clearer, shadows of the dusk descend; and our looks, once bright and fair, now begin to thin and dim, as we do our shopping early in the clangor of marts of trade. Now our eyes are somewhat dimmer, and we long to wear a wig, and our legs are somewhat shlimmer, while our waists are twice as big, and our biting teats are dropping as we view our double chins, while we wisely do our shopping for the Christmas rush begins. Let us therefore live correctly, being fair and just to all, doing all things circumspectly, ready for the final call; for we may fly off the surface as an ax flies from the hedge, and be planted where the turf is like the old year Nineteen Twelve.

—Walt Mason.

FACTS ABOUT PRESIDENT-ELECT WILSON

He is 56 years old.

He has a clever and beautiful wife whose maiden name was Ellen Louise Axson, a daughter of a Presbyterian clergyman of Georgia, and three charming daughters.

His daughters all look much more like him than like their mother. They are all grown and unmarried.

His first name is "Thomas," but he has not used it for many years. They called him Tommy in college.

He does not use tobacco. Drinks a little wine sometimes and a Scotch highball when very tired. Buttermilk is his favorite beverage.

He is nearly blind in his right eye as the result of an accident in youth. When reading he holds a monocle in front of his damaged eye.

His favorite recreation is golf but he walks much.

Sleeps from 9 to 12 hours out of every 24.

Likes automobiling but often goes to sleep in the motor.

He is a shorthand and typesetting expert. Writes all his speeches, lectures and looks that way. He uses the "Graham system" of shorthand.

He is 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 177 pounds.

He can run half a mile at a good pace without losing his "wind."

Dislikes military display.

Except for a thousand dollars which he saved from his salary as president of Princeton, has no property.

Considers "13" his lucky number. There are thirteen letters in his name and in his thirteenth year as a professor at Princeton he was elected its thirteenth president.

He never drinks ice water.

Likes to go to the theatre. Prefers comedy or light opera.

His best speeches are impromptu.

He has enormous ears and a large mouth, with large, irregular, somewhat discolored teeth.

He wears eye glasses all the time.

He was a good baseball and football player when a young man.

He is Scotch-Irish.

His father was a Presbyterian minister and he is a Presbyterian too.

When away from home he sends his wife a "lettergram" every night.

MOLDY FORAGE POISONS HORSES

During the last five months numerous reports have been received by the United States Bureau of Animal Industry to the effect of horses being poisoned in various sections of the United States, particularly in Louisiana, West Virginia, Kansas and Nebraska. It is not uncommon to occur when a hot, dry period has been followed by rains or during wet seasons, especially those which are characterized by frequent rains alternating with hot sunshines, producing a damp, sultry atmosphere. Such conditions are most favorable to the growth of molds, and all outbreaks that have been investigated by the bureau have been traced to the eating of unsoaked hay, straw, grain and feed or the drinking of water from wells or pools containing surface water drained through decomposed and moldy vegetation. The disease is believed to be also due to eating damaged ensilage, hay, corn, brewers' grains, oats, etc. Horses and mules at pasture may eat large quantities of grass, but the growth of grass is so profuse that it mats together and the lower part dies and becomes moldy. It is difficult to ascertain exactly what yet has been found which can be considered as the cause of this disease.

The so-called cerebrospinal meningitis of horses being an entirely different disease from that which occurs in man, the symptoms as well as the causative agent differ. The disease most rapidly fatal attacks death taking place in from five to forty-eight hours. Such cases begin with violent tremors, stiffness and extreme stiffness of the body, with staggering gait, partial or total inability to swallow, impairment of eyesight, followed by progressive paroxysms, in which the animal stands with marked delirium, during which the animal lying down on its side becomes very stiff, the head and body held rigid. In the second form of the disease the same line of symptoms may be observed in a milder degree. Difficulties in breathing, stiffness, a change in the food and inability to switch the tail are observed. Breathing becomes heavy and noisy, and there may develop a spasm of the spinal muscles or partial cramp of the neck and jaws. Death occurs in from six to twenty-four hours.

The first principle in the treatment of this disease consists in a total change of feed and water. Horses kept at pasture should be fed on sound forage and grain from an uncontaminated source, even if such a source is not known. Those that have become affected while at pasture should be removed from the field in which they have been grazing and should be turned to a field brought to the horse or carab and fed on wholesome and clean feed and forage. The water, unless from an unpolluted source, should likewise be changed.

At present the preventive treatment is to apply some of the known remedies for checking the disease, as all medical remedies used have been unsatisfactory in the vast majority of cases. The best treatment is to remove the toxins and remove the poisonous products, but on account of the difficulty in removing the toxins in their natural state it is hard to give. In fact no remedy is given by mouth if the throat is paralyzed, as pneumonia is likely to result. If there is a large amount injected into the jugular vein two or three grains of eserin under the skin, if the animal is not too great a risk, will be effective.

Interest disinfectants such as calomel, salicylic acid and croton are also used. If much weakness is shown and the animal is unable to stand, active aromatic spirits of ammonia, digitalis, strich, ether or camphor. Injecting liquids of warm water and oil and water may also be applied to the body. Subsequent treatment should consist of two or three doses of strichine twice daily, followed by one-half ounce of Fowler's solution given at one dose and repeated three times daily to coat the mucous membranes and open the nervous system. —United States Department of Agriculture.

Feeding Pigs for Profit.

The old method of keeping a wacky mess made up of all manner and sorts of waste and rubbish in a stable does not hold a horse until the other day. Some states have had little trouble in the preparation of it also, says W. H. Underwood in the New York Times. I find street, bar and market wastes are the best to be selected an hour or two before feeding fed make the feed as far as taste and increase its digestive properties. Well known meat men say that the animal is more responsive to their influence than a hasty mixed liquid mass of raw meal and cold slop.

A Dairy Essential.

Keep in mind that a cow must have enough to maintain her in good physical condition and the surplus or more above that required for milk production should be made into milk, yielding butter fat for sale. This is the best way to keep a cow which maintains her body in a vigorous condition, but without surplus fat, thereby supporting her self-economically and having a large surplus of feed with which to fill her bell.

Woman's World

Miss Alice's "Little Woman"
Dramatized by Miss De Forest.

MISS MARIAN DE FOREST.

Miss Marian De Forest, who dramatized "Little Women," is the dramatic critic for the Buffalo Express. She is a dramatic reporter, a dramatic critic, but never before tried her hand at playwriting. She is an enthusiastic lover of Miss Alcott's works, and her dramatization was made with the full knowledge of the author. Miss Alcott explains that she did not want to be tied down by incidents, as is often the case when the dramatist consults the author in conjunction with the work at hand.

As a play "Little Women" has been well received, and the famous story is becoming increasingly popular.

The role of Meg is taken by Miss Alice Brady, the daughter of William A. Brady, who produced the play.

IN THE OLDE DAYS.

Equal Suffrage Obtained Among the Normans of the Viking Age.

Many of the women of today who pride themselves upon being "modern" and "advanced" and who are making such a brave struggle to obtain rights and opportunities which were denied to them by their fathers would be surprised to know how far equal suffrage obtained among the old Vikings. In the age of the Vikings Rough and Violent, as they were in those days, they had a respect for women, which was not made to be theirs without any contention would be surprised to know how far equal suffrage obtained among the old Vikings. In the age of the Vikings Rough and Violent, as they were in those days, they had a respect for women, which was not made to be theirs without any contention would be surprised to know how far equal suffrage obtained among the old Vikings.

Women of the time of the Vikings became of legal age and was allowed to transact her own affairs of business. She could buy and sell, lease and rent, which, after her marriage, still remained her own. After a year of marriage a man and his wife could be separated if he did not provide for his wife's support. If "the man" would not do so, take from their scanty earnings and dispose of them without a "by your leave" or "take your leave."

The woman of the time of the Vikings could not be compelled to marry, but if she did, she could get a divorce if she wanted to. She could not be compelled to take care of her husband and his property, but she could not be compelled to give him a home and a family.

A man went to an insurance office to have his life insured the other day. He said, "My cycle! The insurance agent asked me."

"Not your motor?"

"No."

"Do you then, perhaps, fly?"

"Have no dangerous—put the agent interrupted my cycling."

"Sorry sir, he said, but we no longer insure pedestrians."

Doctors do not believe in advertising, but it is noticed by the Rosetta and other physicians that the public, with full names whenever they get a chance to do so.

Attacks of cholera and dysentery come quickly, those being any warning that you are ill. You must be taken just as quickly if the patient is to be spared great suffering. It is the membranes of the bowels. The readiest preparation for the purpose is Dr. J. H. Williams' Vegetable Compound. It can be got at small cost at any drug store or general dealer, and will be ordered before a doctor can be called.

WOMAN'S MOST SUCCESSFUL MEDICINE

Known All Over The World
—Known Only For The Good It Has Done.

We know of no other medicine which has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women, or received so many good reports from Dr. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In nearly every community you will find women who have been restored to health and strength by the use of it. Every woman you meet knows of the great good it has been doing among suffragettes, nurses, mothers, etc.

For Creek, N. B.—"I have always had pains in the abdomen and a weakness there and often after meals a soreness in the bowels. I used to take Dr. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound but don't now as it is good, I am stronger, digestive is better, and I can eat with pleasure again."

I have always encouraged many mothers of families to take it as it is the best remedy in the world. You can establish this in the papers."—Mrs. WILLIAM FOX CO., LTD., N.B.

In the Flocke Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing hundreds of thousands of letters from women seeking relief in all sorts of trouble. In many cases they state over their signatures that they have regarded their health by taking Dr. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, many of which states that it has saved their surgical operations.

The Hard Luck of Mr. Nichol

Graham G. Nichol has been mentioned in the news as one of the greatest poker players in this country.

If you do not know what is the national indoor sport, you may be reassured by sending queries to many of the clubs in Chicago, Indianapolis and Washington.

The peculiar feature of his ability is that he can sleep well!

Are you in perfect health?

One afternoon he came out of a club in Washington and gave some of his cards to a woman who was one of their wives. He looked dismal, dreary, and mournful. There was in him something that was not all other things being equal. Then with all his wife or she wife with nerves failing, he lay down and slept the entire body.

Nicholas, ret., can say, "Yet experiments at Columbia University seem to bear out this theory which is known as 'old as the hills.'

Dr. Walter R. Stiles, one of the best known exponents of the use of electricity, not only in the case of diseases but for the sound effect it has on overworked and tired men, is a firm believer of this theory.

The truth of this theory, while it is not new, has not been demonstrated so often as times, says Doctor Clarke.

But it is only just recently produced. We now understand why it is so.

By electrical stimulation of the brain, we can make them better or make them healthy, if diseased.

Many diseases that were for years incurable or of which we were now cured by electricity.

There is no doubt that sleeping with the head to the north is beneficial.

A Pleasant Purgative.—Parmelee's Vegetable Compound is composed as follows: on the basis of the bowls, so that they act along the whole alimentary and excretory passageway.

It is a safe, simple, work and mildly purgative, and the pleasure of taking it is only equaled by the taste of the vegetable.

Compounded only of vegetable substances the nutritive qualities are full and taste affords relief without chance of injury.

LECTURE ON MORAL REFORM AND TEMPERANCE

(Contributed)

On Thursday evening of this week a visit was paid the town by Rev. W. F. Gold, Field Secretary of the Alberta Temperance and Moral Reform League, who gave an illustrated address in the Methodist church. Preceding the lantern pictures a short address was given by the lecturer on a few important points relative to the work. In regard to the old argument of personal liberty, the speaker emphasized the thought that legislation was for the masses rather than for the individual, and that when the welfare of the masses was at stake the individual was not to be considered. A few other important thoughts were thrown out such as one man says: "I mind my own business, and let others mind theirs." It is every man's business to help others who are down and out. "Why don't you go to the root of the matter and attack the brewer and distiller?" In answer to this question the speaker used the following illustration: A farmer who was breaking twenty-five acres with a yoke of oxen was asked why he did not break the whole one hundred and sixty acres and finish the job. Said the farmer, "My oxen are not big enough or strong enough to break more than twenty-five acres per year but come back in a few years and I will show you what a splendid farm I have." And in applying the illustration the speaker said one yoke of oxen is not big enough to finish the job, but like the farmer we can do a little each year. At present we are not big enough, powerful enough; we have not enough money or temperament sentiment to complete the job, but we will do a little with the power that is ours now, and finally completely overthrow the traffic.

The following address a few suggestive slides were thrown on the sheet, illustrating these thoughts: "Which is the most important, the barrel or the boy?" "You can't wash your hands of responsibility in connection with the liquor traffic." "The teetotaler has the best of it always." "The time has come," says the American Federation of Labour, "when labour and the drink traffic must be divorced." "Mother works at the tub and father works at the bar." And also others. Following these, several slides were thrown on the sheet illustrating the story, "Ten nights in a bar-room," which concluded the program.
